Frank V. Cavins (on the right) and Dale M. Bayles have donated a photo-mural of Napoleon, Eastern's deceased mascot, to the University. The mural, which measures three feet by 26 inches, will be placed in the lounge of the University Union. The News will pay for an engraved plaque for the photo-mural out of its fund to finance a Napoleon Memorial.

Pre-Registration Set For New Students On Appointed Days

New students entering Eastern in the fall have a chance to pre-register and arrange their schedules this summer.

Four different dates have been set up, and each new student has been given an appointment for one of the dates. Monday was the first date. The other three dates are Monday, July 30, and August 6. Two-hundred students are expected to attend each pre-registration day.

The students have been assigned appointments at half-hour intervals with an advisor in their major field.

Those students unable to register on their assigned day, may register on the regular registration days, Sept. 4 and 5. Also at that time, the students who do attend pre-registration will complete their registration.

The reasons for the summer registration dates are to give the students the possibility of getting a better schedule, to give the students an opportunity to look over the campus, and to simplify the student's first days on campus, according to Lavern M. Hamand, associate dean.

The freshman class will be about the same size as last year's class, while the total estimated fall enrollment will be around 3,500, according to Maurice W. Manbeck, assistant dean of registration and records. Last year's fall enrollment was 3,309.

Waffle Named Judge Of English Awards

Eugene M. Waffle, head of the English department, has been appointed a judge of the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards for 1962.

The council grants recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English and to the high school English departments training the students.

Appointment of Waffle was announced by James R. Squire, executive secretary of the council.

EU Air-Conditioning Installation Unfinished

Installation of air-conditioning is not been completed in Blair Hall or Booth Library. Air-conditioning in the mathematics department is partially in operation.

President Quincy Doudna last week termed the situation "very stressing" and said there is "no legitimate excuse" for the work not being completed.

He said the contractors are not finishing the work as fast as the contract called for and as they indicated they could originally."

He said the situation is through no fault of any person on our staff at all." Doudna added that, to his knowledge, there has been no labor trouble involved in the slowup.

Doudna attributed the 15 per cent fall in library circulation compared to last summer to the lack of air-conditioning in the library.

In regard to a suggestion in a letter-to-the editor in last week's News, Doudna said it would be impossible to transfer air-conditioners from Blair Hall to the library because all are in use.

He said that his decision to have air-conditioning taken out of the library and put in the mathematics department was a mistake; at the time he thought air-conditioning would be in operation in the library by the end of the spring quarter. He added also that the mathematics department is a particularly hot area in the summer and that this was a factor in the decision.

Summer Students' Art Being Shown

Included in the display the rest of the summer quarter is a series of paintings dealing with the individual styles and philosophies of the graduate students.

Scheduled for Thursday, July 26 is a short trip to Lincoln Log Cabin State Park. Participants will depart at 3 p.m. from the University Union parking lot and will return about 5:30 p.m.

Included in the tour are other historic sites in the immediate area. Guide for the trip will be Robert W. Sterling, assistant professor of history. There is still room for several more on the trip, according to Elmore.

A trip to St. Louis for the Municipal Opera and a Cardinal baseball game is set for Saturday, August 4. Nominal charges are made for the trip. Interested persons should sign up at the Union desk.

Elmore said student participation in trips and tours this summer has been good. Participating in the Springfield trip July 7 were 30 students and 31 went on the trip to Turkey Run State Park Saturday.

A photo-mural of Napoleon, Eastern's famed mascot from 1946 to 1959, has been presented to Eastern by Frank V. Cavins and Dale M. Bayles, local businessmen.

The mural, which measures three feet by 26 inches, will be hung in the lounge of the University Union.

The News will donate an engraved plaque for the picture. Funds for the plaque will come from a fund, totalling $23.60, collected by the News for a Napoleon memorial.

According to Cavins the two men offered to donate a picture of the University's choice several years ago, but until recently no request had been made.

The Student Senate has collected funds for a memorial to Eastern's deceased mascot. The proposed memorial would cost from $150 to $300.

President Bob Millis has strongly favored the Napoleon memorial project. He has said he feels the memorial "would be worthwhile mainly for providing and preserving the tradition we do have."

He has said that Nap symbolizes campus unity, a tradition of the type he feels helps to "promote school spirit."

Millis said last week, "I think it was a fine gesture on the part of Mr. Cavins and Mr. Bayles." He added that the gift might alter the Senate's plans for a memorial, but that this would have to be decided by the Senate in the fall.

Napoleon came to Eastern in April, 1946. During the next 13 years he became a campus legend. He attended various sporting events, including almost every football game, and also visited classrooms occasionally. In 1959 the "Warbler" was dedicated to the big Golden Retriever.

Lecturers To Speak To Science Group

Dietrich Bodenstein, of the department of biology at the University of Virginia, will present three lectures on campus Monday and Tuesday in connection with the National Science Foundation Summer Institute.

The first lecture, "Problems of Regeneration in Insects," will be at 10:30 a.m. Monday. The second lecture, "The Roll of Hormones in the Life of Insects," will be given at 7 p.m. Monday, and will be open to the public. The last lecture, "An Analysis of Embryonic Development," will be at 10:30 a.m., Tuesday.

Interested persons may attend any of the lectures. The lectures will be given in room 216 of the Science Building.

Cyril Bibby, principal of Kingston upon Hull Training College, Kingston upon Hull, England, will also be on campus for lectures next week, according to Weldon N. Baker, director of the National Science Foundation Summer Institute.

Olney Jr. College Plan . . .

A New Educational Approach

A new approach to the problem of higher education in Illinois is taking place in the cooperation of Eastern with the East Richland Community Unit School District in planning and establishing a junior college in Olney.

This is possibly the first plan in the United States whereby a state university would help a local school district establish a college.

The question of establishing a junior college in Olney, which will be decided by the voters of the district September 15, appears to be a popular one.

If approval of the college is given, Eastern will provide certain managerial services to the district. Primary services to be provided by the University would be development of the instructional program, selection of the faculty and participation in administrative functions of the college.

The relationship between Eastern and the local school board would be of a contractual nature and basic responsibility for the operation of the college would rest with the local board of education.

Leslie E. Purdy, superintendent of the East Richland public schools, has said that the district sought Eastern's cooperation in establishing the junior college because it believes the establishment of a quality junior college program can best be attained by an established university sharing in the program with the local school district.

"Such a relationship of a public school and a university can result in local responsibility for higher education at the community college level while at the same time providing for leadership at the university level," Purdy said.

The proposed junior college definitely would not be a branch of Eastern, according to President Doudna.

The college district would, at present, encompass the same portion of Richland County as the East Richland school district. The district now covers approximately two-thirds of Richland County.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction George T. Wilkins, who approved a survey report for the proposed institution last month, has said that the need for a widespread system of junior colleges is the number one problem facing Illinois education.

If established, the Olney college would be an important aid in providing for the greatly increasing college enrollment expected in the next decade.

Hardly anyone ever comments favorably on the subject of "modern" art. Many people tend to disregard its existence altogether, while others are vocal and vehement critics of the more abstract forms of modern painting.

To complete the third side of this triangular aggregation there are, of course, the enthusiastic proponents of the dip, stroke, splash, and splatter school.

Let us indicate one specific example of the topic under discussion. Throughout most college and university communities, on the walls of various buildings, there may be found large pieces of canvass that have been covered with a variety of paints—colors, textures, pigments, Lacy tendrils, filaments, shapes, and forms are discernable in several degrees of obscurity. This is the stuff oblivion is made of!

Before we go any further, there is perhaps a point of order that should be made. "De gustibus non est disputandum!" We should make no attempt to quibble about matters of taste, that is if there is any taste involved.

Consider how a paragraph of prose would read if it were written after the fashion of modern painting. One must draw the prerequisite conclusion that most modern "canvass authors" are more or less individualistic in their style and approach to their work. Be it granted that they must be emotionally involved (love) their work because (a) there is so much of it, (b) some one must protect it from being burned or being used for wallpaper (c) there is so much on display.

We offer the following "literary" analog of certain types of modern painting with apologies to our linotype operator.

ars gratia I

Xavier College News Wants Press Freedom

(ACP)—University administrations should cut the apron strings as far as freedom of the campus press is concerned, say the Xavier University News.

What is freedom of the press? Is it not the right to print personal and controversial opinion? Is it not the right to print that opinion whether it is right or wrong? If not, then what is it?

Should a University have freedom of the press? If true freedom exists, some opinions contrary to the alumni, faculty, administration, or student opinion will be printed.

Somebody is going to be embarrassed or upset. Does this mean a university should not have freedom of the press?

Can students accept the responsibility that is required by freedom of the press? A chief aim of the university is to instill responsibility.

How can we produce responsible leaders if we do not give responsibilities as students?

Is it necessary for a newspaper to represent the opinion of the student majority? If majority opinion is all that is expressed, do away with newspapers and politicians and bring in sociologists to take polls.

Is it not part of the responsibility and reward of news to give well-informed views? Should we compile the stories should have the experience and reward of expressing their views?

Whether a school is large or small depends not on its size but on the amount of responsibility it entrusts to its students.

Our Readers Speak

Editor: Eastern State News

The editorial position in last week's issue of the News should be highly praised. However, the position may have been a bit too mild.

We are appalled at the dominance of military attitudes in peace time. We agree that our government has tended to react too drastically to minor international situations.

Certainly it is not thought that further military build-ups and H-bomb tests will scare Mr. Khrushchev. This action merely increases tensions and encourages further Russian build-ups. We know that our present supply of nuclear arms is of such capacity as to destroy civilization. Therefore why produce more?

Our military expansion has been and still is to support a balance of power. Historically this balance has not worked and there is no reason to believe that it will today. Generally, we should support an abandonment of this already tried and failed peace formula. Our vast military expenditures should be diverted to other fields. A good deal of this money could be used for propaganda purposes, also for technical foreign aid and the Peace Corps. We should put greater emphasis on the peaceful uses of nuclear power. We can increase our power and heating potential to replace diminishing petroleum supplies. Greater emphasis could be put on the purification of salt water, etc.

Referring to a no-win policy, we feel that Representative Mahon is merely presenting the wishes of his friends in the armaments industries. It is obvious that no one will win a third world war and military buildups usually precede a war.

The argument that we must arm, not for war, but for peace is as full of holes as a block of Swiss cheese. This is sheer madness. When has any military buildup ever brought peace?

Sincerely,
Mike Finkle
John Alkire

To The Editor:

June 25 was decision day in the Supreme Court of the United States and as a result one of the practices here at Eastern, by analogy, has been finally declared unconstitutional. I am referring to the Supreme Court's New York decision outlawing school prayers and comparing it to the commanded singing of the doxology at Eastern. In the past, those eating at Lincoln and Douglas Men's Residence Halls have had to sing this dissonance before dinner. The line "Praise Father, Son and Holy Ghost" and the other lines of the prayer certainly has no place in my dining room nor should it be in our school's dining rooms.

I resent being forced to observe this assiduous religious attempt but am contented to some

New Speech, Lab School Appointments Released By President Doudna

A speech department faculty member and a third grade supervisory teacher were appointed last week.

President Quincy Doudna announced the appointments of Jimmie D. Trent as assistant professor of speech and Erma Marie Bryan as instructor and supervisory teacher of the third grade for the Laboratory School.

Trent comes to Eastern from Purdue University where he was an instructor in speech. He holds the bachelor and master of science degrees from Emporia State Teachers College in Kansas.

Miss Bryan for the past year has served at Western Illinois University in a capacity similar to the one she will assume at Eastern. She received her bachelor and master degrees in education from Western.

Foreign Service Exam Scheduled

Students planning to take the September 8 Foreign Service Officers Examination must have their applications in the hands of the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, U.S. Department of State, Washington 25, D.C., by July 23, according to Frank W. Neuber, associate professor of social science.

Application forms, sample questions, and examination announcements are available in Neuber's office—Room 311 of Blair Hall.

"It should be stressed," Neuber said, "that this examination is for Foreign Service officers—not for Foreign Service clerical personnel widely advertised over area radio stations, or the Peace Corps."

Additional information is available from Neuber. He will be available to talk to candidates from 9-9:30 a.m. and 11-11:30 a.m. daily.

Phi Sigma Epsilon moved into undisputed first place in the intramural softball league during last week's action. The National Science Foundation is in second place just one game off the pace.

Alan Pahde is leading the hitters with a blazing .615 average, followed by Clark Leden with a .583. Close behind are Dave Stanfield and Dick Thompson at .571.

Standings are as follows:

In other action, Dick Ellinger appears to be the man to beat in horseshoes as he has made his way to the semi-finals undefeated.

Keith Baldwin, Ed Miller, Bart Zeller and Lloyd Eggers have reached the quarter-finals in badminton.

In table tennis, Bill Prince, Lloyd Eggers and Dave Hussey are still undefeated.

New Facilities Set For Language Lab.

New language laboratory equipment is scheduled to be installed in the language laboratory located in the tower of Old Main. The equipment arrived a few weeks ago and will be installed around July 26.

The equipment consists of 30 individual booths and a console, or main control unit, from which the instructor will operate the controls. Approximate cost of the equipment is $9,000, according to Kevin Guinaugh, head of the foreign language department. The equipment is a Magneticon System manufactured by Thompson Ramo Wooldridge, Inc., Columbus, Ohio.

German, Spanish, French, and Russian students will be able to utilize the redecorated laboratory. The tapes to be used are recorded by native speakers, and will correspond to chapters in the text book used in the various classes.

Area teachers may observe the laboratory in operation after it opens.

As the tennis tourney approaches the quarter-final round, eight players are still undefeated. They are Jerry Maxwell, Terry Littrell, Paul Quandel, Ron Leibig, Alan Pahde, Roger Manuel, Jim Cunningham and Bart Zeller.

Participation in the bridge and golf tournaments is a little behind schedule. Qualification rounds for the golf playoff should be completed by July 28.

Construction of the new Life Science Building is in progress southeast of Booth Library. The building is scheduled to be completed next summer. Plans are being made for a two-story addition to be built north of the building.

Two English Department Instructors Appointed

Two appointments to the English faculty of Eastern next fall were announced recently by President Quincy Doudna.

Stanford T. Carlson, a University of Minnesota graduate, has been appointed assistant professor of English. He holds both the bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from Minnesota.

George M. Colby has also been appointed as an assistant professor of English. A native of New Hampshire, he holds the bachelor of philosophy and master of arts degrees from University of Chicago.

Carlson this past year has been teaching at the Denver Country Day School in Englewood, Colo. Colby was on the English staff of Ohio State University.

respect that the Supreme Court is recognizing individual religious differences—even if Eastern administrative forces are not "religious services" held meals is in direct opposition to the Constitution and it's First Amendment, which states that there be no law "respecting an establishment of religion."

Therefore, I am of the firm personal opinion that this should be stricken from the handbook and that this practice should be immediately discontinued. The definite separation of church and state is continued and is widening. I hope the administration and especially the president of Eastern University will finally be able to fully understand and perceive where they stand on this issue every time they receive their checks.
